

Paul Henke Newsletter - Christmas 2016

This year Paul has turned his hand to a new genre. One of his readers had made a comment about how much he liked novellas. Ideal for a plane or train journey he said. Paul has always been a fan of the detective stories of the 40s and 50s so enter Frank O'Brian, an American Private Investigator working in New York in 1946. He has trained as a lawyer, worked for the Office of Strategic Service – the forerunner to the CIA – during WWII and after being demobbed became what is known colloquially as a gumshoe.

Paul said the added benefit of writing about this period is the absence of mobile phones, computers, e-mail and the rest of social media. I am sure you will understand why (my husband - the original luddite !!).

The novellas are only available on Kindle at this stage.

Thanks as always for anyone who has taken the time to give an online review – it is much appreciated. Paul is busy attending Christmas Fayres and events. Details are on www.henke.co.uk. Getting to grips with Social Media and keeping up to date as these programs frequently change is an ongoing challenge. Thanks to everyone who has “liked”, “shared” and “retweeted”. If we don't always reply ... try an email. That is the one mode of communication we fully understand!

2017

Paul has also been working on a new Nick Hunter which will be available next year. The story centres round the smuggling of people and drugs into Europe.

There's been a delay in getting the new Richard Griffiths published but it is finally ready. It should be an e-book in February and for those who don't know, it's about politics and murder interwoven into a love story.

CHRISTMAS OFFERS: We are offering all five Tears books for £30 plus £6 P&P as a great Christmas gift – signed and personalised of course. A second offer is the Trilogy of the first 3 books for just £18 plus £4 P&P. As always we are happy to gift wrap and send direct to the recipient.

Brexit

In February Paul started campaigning for BREXIT, and spent many hours leafletting, knocking on doors and helping to man a gazebo in Stirling town centre. He also appeared on numerous panels debating the issues with those who wished that we remained in the EU. Thanks to his research for his novel "Corruption" that deals with corruption in the EU parliament he was able to use facts and figures from third parties to make his arguments.

Facebook : “Like” on Paul Henke \(author\), Twitter: “follow” on @paulhenke

LinkedIn: “befriend” on henke@sol.co.uk

Blog: “subscribe” to the blog on <http://www.henke.co.uk/category/blog/>

To order books Email: henke@sol.co.uk, or Website www.henke.co.uk or just phone on 01360 440013 or write to us at 11 Buchanan St, Balfron, G63 0RL